

SCHOOL OF POLITICS & ECONOMICS

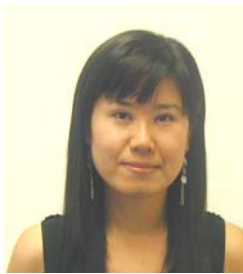

FACULTY

DEAN

JEAN SCHROEDEL, Dean, Ph.D Political Science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Dr. Schroedel's areas of specialization include American politics, executive-Congressional relations, Congress and public policy; the modern presidency; American political development; women in the political process, state regulation of the fetus, gender politics in the workplace, race and sex discrimination in employment; AIDS policymaking, gun control, and women and the law. Schroedel's recent book, Is the Fetus a Person? A Comparison of Policies Across the Fifty States, was awarded the American Political Science Association's 2001 Victoria Schuck Award.

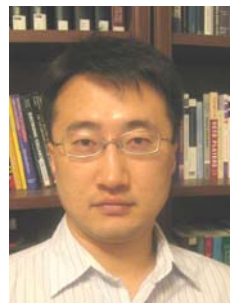

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICS & POLICY

EUNYOUNG HA, Assistant Professor, PhD Political Science, University of California, Los Angeles. Her research areas include comparative politics, political economy, and political institutions. Her primary research interest involves the impact of globalization and domestic political institutions on domestic political economy, in particular as manifested in the following areas: inequality, poverty, growth, unemployment, inflation, welfare spending, and taxation. She currently studies the impact of globalization and government ideology on aspects of economic performance such as economic growth, unemployment, and inflation and how these impacts are different between developed and less developed countries.

BENOY JACOB, Mary Toepelt Nicolai-George Blair Assistant Professor, PhD Public Administration, University of Illinois, Chicago. His research area is in state and local tax policy and he focuses on how state and local institutions shape 1) public-private relationships, 2) land development and 3) the structure and emergence of public sector social networks.

GYUNG-HO JEONG, Assistant Professor, Ph.D. Political Science, Washington University in St. Louis. His primary research interests are in the fields of international political economy and political methodology (Bayesian statistics). He is interested in applying theories of legislative and bureaucratic politics and quantitative methods to explain trade, monetary, and immigration politics.

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICS & POLICY CONT'D

JACEK KUGLER, Elisabeth Rosecrans Professor of World Politics, Ph.D. Political Science, University of Michigan. His teaching and areas of specialization include, war, peace, deterrence, political economy, economic development and formal decision making, power transition theory, political demography, and deterrence strategy. Renowned as one of the best graduate student mentors in the country, he is past president elect of the International Studies Association, Peace Science Society and Editor of International Interactions.

JENNIFER MEROLLA, Associate Professor and Department Chair, PhD Political Science, Duke University. Her research areas include American politics with specialization in campaigns and elections, public opinion, political psychology, political behavior and Congress, and the interaction of behavior by elites and the masses, and linkages of political parties and interest groups. The primary focus of her research is to examine how elites can help citizens overcome information and coordination problems.

LEWIS SNIDER, Professor, Ph.D. Political Science, University of Michigan. Dr. Snider's research interests include foreign policy, international political economy, comparative politics Middle Eastern foreign policy relating to conflict and negotiations, international political economy and political risk analysis. During the Gulf crisis and the war for Kuwait, he was a Middle East political consultant and political commentator for Fox Television News. He is a frequent commentator on National Public Radio.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

THOMAS BORCHERING, Professor, Ph.D. Economics, Duke University. Areas of specialization include microeconomics, public choice, property rights, exchange, and transaction costs, politics and public choice, sociological economics, the role of institutions in economic, political, and social choice, microeconomic theory, evolution of desegregation politics, social costs of conscription, legal rent-seeking cartels, social capital, political choice, and conflicts of interest in the Hollywood film industry.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS CONT'D

ARTHUR T. DENZAU, Professor, Ph.D Economics, Washington University. Areas of specialization include public finance, public economics, industrial organization, local educational finance, technological change, institutional change, political economy of Japan, technological change, micro-economic theory, law and economics, political economy of trade, history of thought, and econometrics. His current research deals with the problems of Asian economics, political economy and the role of mental models.

PAUL ZAK, Professor and Department Chair, Ph.D. Economics, University of Pennsylvania. Teaching and research interests include macroeconomics, finance and general equilibrium theory, neuroscience and economics, neuroeconomics, social cognition producing cooperation or conflict, decision-making under uncertainty, the neural foundations of human capital, and the effect of institutional design on economic development. He is Director of the Center for Neuroeconomics Studies.

THOMAS D. WILLETT, Horton Professor of Economics, Claremont Graduate University and Claremont McKenna College. Ph.D Economics, University of Virginia. Dr. Willett is Director of the Claremont Institute for Economic Studies and the Horton Professor of Economics in the Department of Economics, Claremont Graduate University and Claremont McKenna College. Areas of specialization include international and monetary economics, political economy, and economic policy, international financial crises and public choice or political economy analysis of national and international economic policies. A major facet of his professional activity has been to improve the dialogue between economists and political scientists. He is the Director of the Claremont Institute for Economic Policy Studies, and former head of the International Research Department at the U.S. Treasury.

CLINICAL PROFESSORS

MARK ABDOLLAHIAN, Ph.D. Political Science, Claremont Graduate University. Dr. Abdollahian is the co-author of Power Transitions and a number of scholarly articles on strategic decision making and conflict. He is cofounder and Chief Operating Officer of Sentia Group, Inc., dedicated to the formal study of decision making, policy analysis and advice. He has been a consultant to the IMF, the World Bank, State Department, Department of Defense and a number of U.S agencies and private businesses, including Arthur Andersen, Motorola, McKinsey, Raytheon, British Aerospace, Chevron & DeBeers. His research has been funded by DARPA and other agencies. Dr. Abdollahian has developed, managed and applied predictive modeling to strategic and operational issues across government and business, focusing on bringing to market the latest advancements in quantitative computational social science.

CLINICAL PROFESSORS CONT'D

KENNETH BLICKENSTAFF, J.D., Loyola Law School. Professor Blickenstaff has been teaching Legal Research Methods and Constitutional Law at CGU for the last four years. He attended Pomona College in Claremont, receiving his BA in Government. After a two-year break from school, including an extended journey through Latin America, he continued his education at Loyola Law School in Los Angeles, receiving his JD degree in 1977. Following law school, Prof. Blickenstaff practiced law for 19 years before moving on to other activities. In addition to law, he has worked in a variety of industries advertising, mortgage banking, manufacturing, and education administration before beginning his teaching career at CGU.

ALDO FLORES-QUIROGA, Ph.D, Political Science, University of California, Los Angeles. Dr. Flores-Quiroga's teaching and areas of specialization are in Latin American politics, comparative politics, microeconomics, international relations, formal methods and public policy. He publishes research on the political economy of Mexican foreign economic policy and institutional reform. Former Director General of the Bilateral Economic Relations, Ministry of Foreign Relations (SRE), Mexico.

JAMES LEHMAN, PhD. Economics, Duke University. Dr. Lehman's areas of specialization include Microeconomics, International Economics, Economic History of China and Japan (19th and 20th centuries), Trade and Development Policy, International Trade and Finance, Money and Banking, Public Finance.

MICHAEL UHLMANN, Ph.D. Government, Claremont Graduate University, LL.B., University of Virginia Law School. Dr. Uhlmann's areas of specialization include American Politics, Constitutional Law, The Administrative State and the Judiciary. In addition to previous teaching assignments with Claremont McKenna College and the George Mason University Law School, Dr. Uhlmann practiced law in Washington, D.C. and has had a distinguished career in government, including service as a staff and committee counsel in the U.S. Senate, Assistant General Counsel of the Federal Trade Commission, Assistant Attorney General in the U.S. Department of Justice and Special Assistant to the late President Ronald Reagan.

VISITING ASSISTANT PROFESSOR

LEVAN EFREMIDZE, PhD Economics, Claremont Graduate University. Dr. Efremidze's areas of specialization include International Finance, Macroeconomics, Experimental and Neurofinance, and Forecasting.

RESEARCH ASSISTANT PROFESSOR

HAL NELSON, Ph.D. Public Administration and Policy, Portland State University. Dr. Nelson's teaching interests include international political economy, international relations, international energy policy, international environmental politics and policies, methods. His research interests include international political economy, international climate policy, civic engagement and decision making.

CLAREMONT MCKENNA COLLEGE--POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY

ALFRED BALITZER, Ph.D Government, Claremont Graduate University. Since 1971, Dr. Balitzer has been teaching political philosophy and American government at Claremont McKenna College and Claremont Graduate University. Dr. Balitzer is a recognized authority on American politics and U.S. Asia relations, with an extensive record of lectures and publications in the Asia Pacific world. Dr. Balitzer has served his state and country in several capacities, including as a member of the board of the Jacob K. Javitz Fellowship Program. He is currently a board member of the American Academy of Liberal Education. He has also served as a member of the board of the Korean-American Museum and the Japan-America Symphony Association and is an advisor to the Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles, a position in which he has served for twenty years. Dr. Balitzer is a member of Board of Trustees for Claremont Graduate University and a member of the Board of Visitors in the School of Politics and Economics.

CMC POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY CONT'D

MARK BLITZ, Fletcher Jones Professor of Political Philosophy, Ph.D Harvard University. Dr. Blitz served during the Reagan administration as Associate Director of the United States Information Agency, where he was the United States Government's senior official responsible for educational and cultural exchange, and as Senior Professional Staff Member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. He has been Vice President and Director of Political and Social Studies at the Hudson Institute and has taught political theory at Harvard University and at the University of Pennsylvania. He is the co-editor (with William Kristol) of Educating the Prince and the author of Heidegger's "Being and Time" and the Possibility of Political Philosophy and of many articles on Greek and German political philosophy, public policy, and foreign affairs.

CHARLES KESLER, Professor of Government and Director of the Salvatori Center, Ph.D Harvard University. Dr. Kesler is editor of The Claremont Review of Books and a senior fellow of the Claremont Institute for the Study of Statesmanship and Political Philosophy. He served as Vice Chairman of the Advisory Committee to the official U.S. James Madison Commemoration Commission, and as a member of the Thomas Jefferson-Sally Hemmings Scholars Commission. His edition of The Federalist Papers, published as a Signet Classic by Penguin-Putnam, Inc., is the best-selling edition in the country. He is the editor of and a contributor to Saving the Revolution: The Federalist Papers and the American Founding (The Free Press), and has written extensively on American constitutionalism and American political thought. He is co-editor, with William F. Buckley, Jr., of Keeping the Tablets: Modern American Conservative Thought (Harper & Row). His articles on contemporary politics have appeared in the Los Angeles Times, The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Times, Policy Review, National Review, The Weekly Standard, Intellectual Capital.com, and other journals.

JAMES H. NICHOLS, JR., Professor, Ph.D Cornell University. Dr. Nichols is Professor of Political Science at Claremont McKenna College and Avery Fellow at Claremont Graduate University. Educated at Yale and Cornell, he has also taught at McMaster University, the Graduate Faculty of the New School for Social Research, and Yale University. He spent a year working at the National Endowment for the Humanities in Washington, as Associate Director of the Division of General Programs. He teaches political philosophy and Questions of Civilization and team-teaches a course on the foundations of political economy. His publications include Epicurean Political Philosophy: On the De rerum natura of Lucretius; translations with introduction, notes, and interpretative essays of Plato's Gorgias and Phaedrus; and articles on pragmatism, human rights, Plato's view of philosophic education, liberalism, and political economy. He is at present working on the political philosophy of Alexandre Kojève.

HARRY NEUMANN, Emeritus Professor, Ph.D Johns Hopkins University. He is adjunct professor of Political Philosophy at the Claremont Graduate University. He has taught at Michigan State University, Lake Forest College and Scripps College. He has held fellowships at the Rockefeller University, New York, the Center for Hellenic Studies in Washington, D.C., among others. He is the author of Liberalism and numerous publications. His interest is political philosophy from Thucydides to Heidegger.

PITZER COLLEGE---POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY

SHARON SNOWISS, Professor, Ph.D University of California, Los Angeles. Dr. Snowiss' areas of specialization include ancient, modern and contemporary Political Philosophy as well as Comparisons of Eastern and Western Thought; Futurology, Including Forecastings, Science Fiction, Altered States of Consciousness, Social and Philosophical Impact of Technology, Genetic Engineering; French Literature and Politics; Feminist Political Thought; Mind/Body Healing and Qi Gong.

ASSOCIATED FACULTY OF CLAREMONT GRADUATE UNIVERSITY

FACULTY OF PSYCHOLOGY IN PUBLIC POLICY WITH A CONCENTRATION IN EVALUATION
(see CGU website for Bio/CV)

STEWART I. DONALDSON, Dean
KATHY PEZDEK, Associate Dean

EUSEBIO ALVARO
DALE E. BERGER
TIFFANY BERRY
MICHELLE BLIGH
WILLIAM CRANO
CHRISTINA A. CHRISTIE
REBECCA EDDY
ALLEN OMOTO
HALLIE PRESKILL

AFFILIATED FACULTY

SIMON LAMAR, PhD Claremont Graduate University
Macroeconomics

MOHAMMAD SAFARZADEH, PhD Claremont Graduate University
Time Series Econometrics

CLAREMONT COLLEGES CONSORTIUM

EXTENDED FACULTY IN ECONOMICS

SVEN ARNDT, PhD University of California, Berkeley (Claremont McKenna College)
International Trade, International Finance, Modeling the Open Economy, Regional Economic Integration

NANCY NEIMAN AUERBACH, PhD Yale University (Scripps College)
Microeconomics, Public Policy

S. BROCK BLOMBERG, PhD John Hopkins University (Claremont McKenna College)
Politics, Philosophy and Economics

ELEANOR BROWN, PhD Princeton University (Pomona College)
Public Finance, Microeconomic Theory, Partial Equilibrium Analysis

RICHARD BURDEKIN, PhD University of Houston (Claremont McKenna College)
Macroeconomics, Money and Finance, Money and Banking

CECELIA CONRAD, PhD Stanford University (Pomona College)
Race and the U.S. Economy, Applied Regression Analysis, Urban Economics, Poverty and Distribution of Income, Marriage, Motherhood and Money

PATRICIA DILLON, PhD University of Southern California (Scripps College)
Emerging Economies in Europe and Asia, Managerial Economics, Personal Finance

MICHELLE GOEREE, PhD University of Virginia (Claremont McKenna College)
Empirical Industrial Organization, Microeconomics, Econometrics

ERIC HELLAND, PhD Washington University (Claremont McKenna College)
Law and Economics, Microeconomics, Industrial Organization, Environmental Economics

GREGORY HESS, PhD Johns Hopkins University (Claremont McKenna College)
Public Economics, Macroeconomics

MANFRED KEIL, PhD London School of Economics (Claremont McKenna College)
Macroeconomics, Econometrics

MICHAEL KUEHLWEIN, PhD Massachusetts Institute of Technology (Claremont McKenna)
Macroeconomics

EXTENDED FACULTY IN ECONOMICS CONT'DLUISA LAMBERTINI, PhD University of California, Berkeley (Claremont McKenna College)

International Finance, International Macroeconomics and Macroeconomics, Political Economy

STEPHEN V. MARKS, PhD Princeton University (Pomona College)

Indonesian Economy, Law and Economics, Trade and Regulatory Policies

KERRY O'DELL, PhD University of California, Berkeley (Claremont McKenna College)

American Economic History, Macroeconomics, Monetary and Financial Economics, International Trade and Finance

SLAVI SLAVOV, PhD Stanford University (Claremont McKenna College)

International Finance, Macroeconomics

JANET SMITH, PhD University of California, Los Angeles (Claremont McKenna College)

Economics of Strategy, Industrial Organization, Microeconomics

MARC D. WEIDENMIER, PhD University of Illinois (Claremont McKenna College)

Macroeconomics, Development of American Markets, Financial & Business Forecasting

EXTENDED FACULTY IN POLITICS & POLICYDAVID ANDREWS, PhD Massachusetts Institute of Technology (Scripps College)

Atlantic political security and economic relations, economic statecraft, international monetary relations, international economic governance, European integration, European monetary integration

NANCY NEIMAN AUERBACH, PhD Yale University (Scripps College)

Microeconomics, Public Policy

HILARY APPEL, PhD University of Pennsylvania (Claremont McKenna College)

Comparative Politics, International Political Economy, Democratic Transitions

JOSEPH BESSETTE, PhD University of Chicago (Claremont McKenna College)

American Government and Ethics

RODERICK CAMP, PhD University of Arizona (Claremont McKenna College)

Pacific Rim, Mexican politics, Comparative Elites, Political Recruitment, Church-state Relations, civil Military Affairs

ELIZABETH CRIGHTON, PhD University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill (Pomona College)

Comparative Gender Politics, Comparative Ethnic Conflict and Peacemaking, comparative European Politics

DONALD CRONE, PhD University of British Columbia (Scripps College)

International Relations, Comparative Politics

EXTENDED FACULTY IN POLITICS & POLICY CONT'D

PIERRE ENGELBERT, PhD University of Southern California (Pomona College)

Sub-Saharan Africa, Institutions and Development, Political Economy of the State, Separatism

EDWARD HALEY, PhD Johns Hopkins University (Claremont McKenna College)

International Security and General Foreign Policy Issues, U.S.-European Relations, U.S. Policy in the Middle East

THOMAS ILGEN, PhD University of California, Santa Barbara (Pitzer College)

International Politics, International Political Economy, Science and Technology Policy

THOMAS KIM, PhD University, San Diego (Scripps College)

Politics and International Relations

CHAE-JIN LEE, PhD University of California, Los Angeles (Claremont McKenna College)

International Relations and Asian Affairs

JOHN PITNEY, PhD Yale University (Claremont McKenna College)

American Politics, Congress, presidency, political organizations and parties, public policy, media politics

RALPH ROSSUM, PhD University of Chicago (Claremont McKenna College)

Constitutional Law, American Founding, Criminal Justice and Procedure

JOHN SEERY, PhD University of California, Berkeley (Pomona College)

Democratic Theory, Feminist Politics, Political Theory

JOHN D. (Jack) SULLIVAN, PhD Stanford University (Pitzer College)

Conflict and Negotiation Processes, Policy Analysis, Environmental Policy, Water Policy

PAUL STEINBERG, PhD University of California, Santa Cruz (Harvey Mudd College)

Comparative Environmental Politics, transnational social movements, political science research methods

RICHARD WORTHINGTON, PhD University of Oregon (Pomona College)

Environmental Action, Globalization, Science Policy, Information Technology