

Call for Papers

The Student Executive Committee of the School of Politics and Economics is proud to announce the call for papers for the SPE Agora, a journal dedicated to academic development within the SPE community by offering students the opportunity to publish and participate in constructive academic dialogue.

Students in any field or sub-field within SPE are invited to submit papers on any subject relevant to the study of politics and/or economics. Quality course work and other unpublished materials are encouraged as submissions for the following categories (please note that upper word limits will be strictly enforced):

Reviews

Critical reviews of contemporary books, articles and guest speakers.
(1,000 word limit)

Opinion Pieces

Personal analysis of political and economic topics.
Polemic diatribes are discouraged and will not be included.
(1,500 word limit)

Essays

Journal style papers, conference presentations and quality course work.
(4,000 word limit)

Econ Bites

Based on the concept of "Freakonomics," which seeks to demonstrate the hidden economic dimension of how the world works, we invite everyone to be their own "rogue economist" and respond to questions determined by the economics editorial team. For current questions, please see the attachment or contact the editorial team at TheSPEAgora@gmail.com.

(1,000 word limit)

Please email submissions to AgoraSubmissions@gmail.com, and include your name, degree, field and contact information (email and phone number).

Submissions will be blind reviewed.

Submissions are due by March 26th and Volume I will be published in April.

Please contact the editorial team with any questions at TheSPEAgora@gmail.com, or track them down in the hallways.

Chief Editors and Politics Editors: Jordan Bradley and Rebecca Pooler-Lunse
Economics Editors: Puspa Amri and Stephanie Heger