

If I use the Office of Career Management’s services, are my needs as a graduate student considered?

Yes. The CGU Office of Career Management is solely dedicated to our graduate students and alumni. We understand the academic pressures you experience as a graduate student, and the difficulties that come with balancing academic work and career management activities. Of course, many graduate students continue working while in school and may have family and social obligations that make time a valuable commodity.

Because of the time pressures you may experience as a graduate student, we encourage you to begin exploring your upcoming career options with a career consultant early in your graduate school experience. This will help make your job or internship experience less stressful and hurried when it is time for you to actively pursue a new position.
